No Private Parking Can Be Done at the Public Expense.

HON.W. P. KELLOGG SO INFORMED

Senator Allison Invites Attention to Contractor O'Day's Withheld Pay-Clothing Must Not Be Hung on Front Fences-H. E. Woodward Wants a Map of Fire Plugs.

Hon. W. P. Kellogg was informed yesterday, in response to previous inquiry with reference to the grading of the parking on Sixteenth street extended, between Florida avenue and Morris street, "to spend any money appropriated to improve the street in improving the parking on Sixteenth street money to improve private property. The parking is in no sense a part of the public highway. The owners have a right to inlose and improve the ground they have re served for parking in any manner they se fit, not inconsistent with arrangements a iit, not inconsistent with arrangements among themselves, and they also have the right to exclude the public from the use of it. They get the benefit of the parking and should, therefore, be at the expense of improving it. For these reasons the request for the improve-ment is denied. The decision was rendered by Attorney S. T. Thomas.

The following orders were issued vesterday Permission is given to temporarily connect two nouses on lot I, block 4. L. P. Brown's sub-division of Mount Pleasant, with the ewer in Park street, using a single laters for the two houses: provided that said houses shall be disconnected from the Park street sewer as soon as the sewer in School street is constructed or sooner, should the owner build houses on the Park street front of this lot requiring drainage into the Park street sewer.

"Not to be opened till I am dead," was the direction written on a scaled packet placed by Archibald Baldwin in the band of his triend Noel Ware.

"And promise to guard it well," he added. Noel Ware did not trust himself to speak. He pressed his friend's hand in token of assent and soon after took his leave.

On reaching his ledgings—he was a bachelor—he locked the packet away to the diest in which he kept his papers. Then sitting down, he began to reflect how sad it was that two friends like himself and Archibald Baldwin, after plodding so many years together, should be forced to part at the last stage of their fortunate rival, and of her at whose shrine they had once jointly worshiped, upon whose destitute, orphaned child they thenceforward vied with each other in lavishing every care. Maud by the hand, "but she shan't be governess—not even yours, if I can help it."

But Maud was beat on having her way. If she failed to get that situation she must look for another. As for Arthur's proposition to get married on the spot, regardless of consequences, it met with a refusal so decided that, for fear of making bad worse, he was fain to take his leave, promising not even to see Maud for the present.

But he did see her, the very next day, too,

"Eureka! I got on track of it in Jared Swipe's ugly face! He came to take me to task for having said something about Archie Baidwin's having left a will. He said I had 'slandered his title,' and threatened me with an action for if. As he sat talking, a look came over his face that brought back a dream I had, like a flash. I had dreamt of catching Jared Swipe, with that look on his face, tampering with the lock of my desk, and of driving him away. Then I had dreamt of taking out the packet and hiding it in another place; and in that very place I found it today. The paper turns out to be Archibaid Baldwin's will, in which everything is left to Mand. For heaven's sake, find her and bring her back."

many times as you have Times. No blanks | convene prospects for a large attendance The latest encouragement is a letter received yesterday from Major Gen. Carnahan, your envelope when you mail your guesses in which he states positively that there will be not less than 9,000 Knights of the Uniform Blank in Camp George Washington, beginning Monday, August 27. This is based on information from a number of divisions in different States and also on past experience.

Mr. MacLeod requested the committee to have a special platform erected for the band in front of the speaker's stand. Mr. Goodhart stated that the plats of seats would be at Metzerott's store and Pythian headquarters early next week, and that he would see the different speakers and remind them of the part they are to take in the reception.

The question as to whom the invitations to the reception should be sent came up, and after considerable discussion it was agreed to send them to the following persons:

President of the United States, Vice President, and officials of the government, officers and members of the supreme lodge, members of committees, officers of the grand lodge of the District, contributors to the encampment fund, officers of the uniform rank, and ten to each members of the uniform rank and ten to each member of the committee on reception to the grand lodge. Thirty thousand copies have been printed, and each is exchangeable for three tickets of admission. The invitation reads as follows: for three tickets of admission. The invitation
